

Defiant Castro Assails U.S.

Experts Say Cuba Has 50 To 100 MIGs

May Be Receiving Bombers, Missiles From Soviet Bloc

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba now has 50 to 100 MIG jet fighters and may be receiving some Soviet bombers and short-range rockets in new Communist-bloc arms shipments, according to information received here.

Experts estimated Sunday the total worth of Red military assistance to Prime Minister Fidel Castro at some $100 million so far, counting both hardware and technical help, with most of the arms deliveries completed in a 12-month period ended last August.

They believe a fresh flow of Red weapons is starting, after an arms-assimilation period which began in Cuba last summer. In this phase, Soviet-bloc instructors remolded Castro forces along Communist lines.

This information was made available to the U.S. delegation at the just-concluded Punta del Este conference of hemisphere foreign ministers.

OAS Council To Meet

The Council of the Organization of American States meets Wednesday to follow up on Punta del Este recommendations against the Castro regime. These included a clampdown on illicit Cuban arms shipments to other American countries.

By getting some 200,000 modern small arms from the Red bloc, Castro was reported able to release older, Western-made weapons for subversive operations in this hemisphere.

Current information here is that in a first round of massive military assistance, delivered mainly between the fall of 1960 and late summer 1961, the Communist bloc shipped to Cuba: 50-100 MIG jet fighters; 150-200 medium and heavy tanks; 50-100 assault guns; 500-1,000 pieces of field artillery; 500-1,000 pieces of anti-aircraft artillery; 500 mortars; 200,000 small arms; 4,000 trucks and other vehicles.

Covert, Trainers Provided

The bloc also supplied Castro with helicopters, piston-engine trainers, and small single-engine transports in unidentified numbers, plus about a dozen twin-engine transports for Cuban civilian airways.

According to this information, the bloc has not yet given Cuba any combat navy ships or jet bombers. But it stated that further military shipments may include bombers, naval craft and possibly short-range tactical guided missiles. Presumably these would not have nuclear warheads.

Last Rites Held For Aerialists

DETROIT (AP)—Their funeral tears barely dried, three survivors of the high-wire human pyramid of "The Great Wallendas" capered anew Sunday above a hushed circus crowd of 8,500.

Less than four hours earlier, Karl Herman and Gunther Wallenda attended the double funeral for two of their high-wire comrades, who plunged to their deaths Tuesday night from a height equivalent to three stories.

Both before and after the act, the crowd gave the troupe a tremendous ovation.

A Lutheran minister told the Wallendas, "Trouble descends at times as a storm to all of us. A storm, as it were, struck the Wallenda troupe high in the air five days ago at the Shrine circus.

Their seven-member human pyramid came apart. Killed in the fall to the concrete floor below were Richard Faughnan, 29, and Dieter Schepp, 23.

Reinforcements Reach Nam Tha Amid Red Fire

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

IN A PLANE OVER NAM THA, Laos (AP)—Royal army transport planes defied Communist mortar fire aimed at the Nam Tha airstrip Sunday and landed reinforcements at the menaced provincial capital. The attackers rejected a cease-fire offer and the battle goes on.

Four Dakotas of World War II vintage set down at short intervals and disgorged troops on the deserted airstrip. No plane stayed on the ground more than four minutes. Mortar shells landed on the southern end of the unpaved airstrip, kicking up clouds of dust and smoke.

Flying escort were three equaly aged T6 trainer-fighter planes. The government of Premier Prince Boun Oum had proposed a cease-fire to take effect at 6 a.m., but this was rejected by his adversaries.

Notice of the rejection by neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma and pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong was brought back by members of the International Control Commission. They had met the two princes at their stronghold of Xieng Khouang in the east-central highlands.

Another C47 on a mission to parachute ammunition to government troops in Nam Tha valley, with this correspondent aboard, was fired on by what was believed to be 120mm mortars on each of seven airdrop passes at 1,000 feet.

An American military adviser aboard the plane said: "I have been in three wars but this is the first time anybody has tried to shoot with a mortar at a plane aloft."

Chances of hitting a flying aircraft with mortar shells, which explode on contact, are about a million to one.

18 Die In Plane Crash

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — A Peruvian airliner crashed Sunday in a jungle region 200 miles north of Lima, killing 18 persons, four of them Americans.

Faucett Airlines, owner of the plane, said there were 15 passengers and three crewmen aboard.

'Doomsday' Fear Sweeps India On Eve Of Eclipse

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — extend south of the Philippines Hindu stargazers, searching a bit harder for their predicted doomsday, warned millions of frightened Indians Sunday night to be prepared for world-ending calamities Monday when the serpent Rahu slithers across the heavens and swallows the sun.

Many astrologers saw nothing to cheer about in the peaceful passing of the first part of their doomsday period that began Saturday.

They called it an ominous warning of horrors to come when the sun is swallowed.

To astronomers this will be the moon's eclipse of the sun, involving a rare conjunction of Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and the earth.

The eclipse will be visible for a brief period in the South Pacific. The path of the total eclipse will

Seven Die In Fiery Crash Of AF Plane

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—An Air Force C47 crashed and burned while taking off at Greensboro-High Point Airport Sunday. At least seven persons, all military personnel, were killed.

Witnesses said the plane rose 150 to 200 feet off the ground, veered to the left, crashed and burst into flames.

An airport spokesman said, "Two officers and an unknown number of military personnel were aboard the plane."

Seven bodies were recovered. There possibly was an eighth person aboard. The plane landed at the airport shortly before the crash and picked up one passenger, the spokesman said. The plane didn't stay long enough to cut off its engines, he added.

The victims were not identified. pending notification of next of

Storm-Isolated Islanders Miss Christmas Mail

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—The 36 inhabitants of Foula Island sure would like to have a change in the weather. They would like to see what's in the Christmas mail.

Foula is one of the Shetland Islands off the north of Scotland. For 47 days it has been cut off from the rest of the Shetlands and from the Scottish mainland by storms in the North Atlantic.

Despite the isolation, Postmaster Harry Gair told a reporter by radiotelephone Sunday: "It's not too serious yet. Last winter was worse—77 days without the boat being able to come near us."

Foula's 17 families, all fishermen folk, say they have enough food to last for a week or two yet. What they really miss is the mail. The last delivery was Dec. 19.

Foula is a spike of rock 3 miles by 1½ sticking straight out of the Atlantic. Its cliffs tower 1,300 feet above the ocean.

Soviet Official Says Ideological War Must Go On

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet communism Sunday sharpened its battle of ideas with the West.

Pravda published a long speech by Mikhail Suslov, top party theoretician, declaring that in the realm of ideology peaceful co-existence with the West is impossible.

The speech was made Jan. 30 before directors and professors of social science institutions. It opened a drive to lead the country to more active acceptance of doctrines outlined at last October's 22nd party Congress.

Nikita Khrushchev himself, while a professed advocate of peaceful coexistence on the practical plane, has often pressed the idea that war on the ideological side must continue.

The Suslov speech appeared to be a direct answer to President Kennedy's suggestion in his Izvestia interview last year that trouble in the world is caused by the active preaching and pressure of the advance of communism.

"Can we consider that peaceful coexistence exists in the sphere of ideology?" Suslov asked. "Of course not. Among some people in the U.S.S.R. still exist remnants of capitalism. They sponge, steal, bribe, conduct hooliganism, fraud, renegeatism, promote religious ideology."

"Is the peaceful coexistence of our Socialist ideology with such phenomena possible?"

"Impossible. Impossible without betrayal of the interests of communism."

"What does the bourgeois ideology consist of?"

"It is vicious anticommunism, a propaganda of hatred toward communism, shameless slander of socialism, propaganda of military aggression, ideological defense of a system of hired slavery and colonialist enslavement."

"Is some sort of conciliation possible, at least temporarily, with that ideology?"

"It is impossible and unthinkable. This would amount to ideological disarmament for Communists."

"Peaceful coexistence means giving up war, the solution of outstanding questions between states through negotiations. Finally, peaceful coexistence is the economic competition of states."

Results Of Graham's Ecuador Tour Hailed

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—Former President Galo Plaza Lasso said Sunday evangelist Billy Graham's visit to this predominantly Roman Catholic country is having results far beyond its effect on the small Protestant minority.

"Dr. Graham is considered a spiritual leader who can explain to the people in words they can understand their fears, their hopes and the problems of the world," Plaza told reporters. "Dr. Graham's campaign here is benefiting all—Catholics, Protestants and non-Christians."

Thousands Sign Anti-De Gaulle Plan Petitions

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — French police Sunday shot and killed one member of the terrorist Secret Army Organization, wounded a second and captured four others in a spurt of violence on the eve of President Charles de Gaulle's radio-TV address to the French people.

Along with France, Algeria waited to hear what De Gaulle had to say about the Algerian problem—and possibly about the results of secret negotiations between the French and Algerian nationalist rebels.

Thousands of Europeans signed petitions here in a snowballing campaign to protest De Gaulle's plans for Algerian independence under Moslem rule.

Speakers told a cheering Algiers' rally that riot police, soldiers and government officials were among 30,000 signers of petitions entitled, "I am a Frenchman. I don't need to determine myself."

Launched Saturday

The nonviolent campaign, launched only Saturday, appeared to be independent of the Secret Army Organization, which is sworn to keep Algeria part of France.

A government spokesman said special riot police operating on a tip moved against a villa near the coast in the western suburb of Pointe Pescade. The villa was suspected of being a Secret Army hideout.

As the riot troops surrounded the villa, occupants of the house opened fire. Police fired back. The group inside broke out to flee and in a brief sharp exchange of gunfire one of the persons was slain and another wounded.

The wounded man was captured but the others escaped. Officials did not identify them but said they were Secret Army members.

Earlier police caught four armed men whose car had run through a checkpoint. They also were identified as Secret Army members.

Kidnaped Lawyer Safe

Another police operation freed Mireille Noame Glaymann-Szatan, 27, a Paris lawyer who was kidnaped by Secret Army operatives four days ago. Officials said she was found unharmed in Algiers but gave no details. She has acted as defense attorney for Algerians accused of prorebel activity.

A government spokesman disclosed all this to a news conference in much the same way that French officials used to recount similar police operations against Moslem terrorists of the National Liberation Front—FLN.

But Moslem terrorism has decreased considerably and French spokesmen now speak of an anti-Secret Army drive as they once reported on their campaign against the FLN.

Acts of Moslem terrorism still continued, however. A terrorist tossed a grenade into a European cafe on Rue Michelet near the center of Algiers during the night, wounding a customer.

Elsewhere in the city three persons died in separate attacks.

Huks Try Comeback

MANILA (AP) — A captured Communist Huk rebel claims the Reds are attempting a comeback in central Luzon Island. Jose Tiamzon, a Huk field commander, was quoted Sunday by police as saying the Huks were reorganizing and recruiting new members in an attempt to revive the armed rebellion. Tiamzon was captured two weeks ago.

Three Killed In Auto Plunge From Bridge

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — Three students at Western Kentucky State College were killed and another injured Saturday night when the automobile in which they were riding plunged through a bridge guard rail into a creek.

State police identified the victims as Nancy M. Adams, 19, Owensboro; Charlotte Willett, 19, Louisville; and Peter A. Heller, 20, Merchantville, N. J., a fourth student, Jerry Scrivner, 21, Hamilton, Ohio, was critically injured.

Goldberg Believes Odds Against Steel Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg predicted Sunday there is better than a 50-50 chance for an early and responsible steel labor contract agreement without a strike.

Goldberg, former general counsel of the Steelworkers Union, hinted that he expects emphasis in the negotiations to be more on contract changes to preserve worker jobs than on higher wages.

As far as shortening work hours, an objective that Steelworker Union leaders have been talking about most frequently, Goldberg reiterated that "it is not in the national interest to reduce the work week" at the present time.

The labor secretary said in a recorded TV broadcast — WTTG-TV network — "Opinion in the Capital" — that he couldn't say in advance what the Steelworkers' complete agreement.

Bob Kennedy Makes Big Hit With Japanese

TOKYO (AP)—U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy got his Japanese goodwill visit off to a good start Sunday night with something the Japanese love—a brave attempt to speak their language.

Moments after his plane landed, Kennedy stepped before a microphone and plowed through a short speech in Japanese that contained best wishes from his brother, the President. Kennedy then drew his wife, Ethel, forward and she, too, took a stab at the difficult language.

But despite stage-whisper coaching from U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer, who is fluent in the language, Mrs. Kennedy gave it up with, "Oh dear"—in English.

Hundreds of Japanese crowded into Haneda Airport terminal applauded loudly.

Kennedy's visit to introduce Japan to the New Frontier spirit has caught the imagination of the Japanese, even more than did President Kennedy's dispatch of five Cabinet members to the Hakone economic conference here last November. In this land where few young people hold top positions of authority, there is amazement that he is only 36 years old.

In his arrival statement, delivered in English after his opening in Japanese, Kennedy noted this is his second visit to Japan. He said he and his wife "have looked forward to it keenly and are delighted to be here."

The attorney general was here previously in 1951, accompanied by the President, who was then a congressman.

"Our two nations are different in many ways and have their roots in different cultural traditions," Kennedy said. "Nevertheless, we share the same fundamental view of the worth of the individual person and the value of free and open societies. Amid the differences, therefore, Mrs. Kennedy and I know we will find much that Japan and the United States have in common."

"I understand we have an extremely busy schedule. This is fine with us because we hope to see as much of your country as we possibly can, and we further hope that our visit will contribute to the already close and friendly relations which exist between Japan and the United States."

Khrushchev Message Read

Every anti-U.S. declaration by Castro brought a roar of approval.

A message from Soviet Premier Khrushchev read at the rally brought thunderous cheers. Khrushchev said, "The peoples of the Soviet Union are always with you, dear Cuban brothers."

Castro told Cubans they will have to redouble their productive efforts because of what he called new economic hardships.

But he warned aggressors that they would receive "an even bigger beating" than that inflicted on anti-Castro rebels in last April's abortive invasion.

"Do we fear imperialism?" Castro shouted. "No," the crowd roared back.

He said imperialists "had better resign themselves to the idea which they fear so much, which gives them insomnia. That is known as the Socialist revolution, which some day will knock on their doors."

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro Sunday night hurled a scathing indictment at the United States and accused President Kennedy of compounding "felony with hypocrisy" with his ban on Cuban products.

"The old order is cracking," Castro told a roaring mass of supporters as he spoke under a powerful bank of spotlights. He roared his defiance of the Organization of American States, which voted to expel his Communist regime, and he predicted revolution would sweep Latin America "like a march of giants."

The bearded Castro called Kennedy "impudent" for his order Friday tightening the U.S. economic squeeze on Cuba.

U.S. administration officials in Washington estimate the action will cost Cuba $35 million a year and will be a severe blow to Castro's plans to export communism to other Latin-American countries.

Castro submitted to a monster crowd spread in front of him a so-called Declaration of Havana denouncing the United States and other countries he accused of fostering what he called the hemisphere's many ills.

Fidel 'Compares' U.S., Cuba

As the crowd belled its endorsement, Castro offered a comparison of Cuba and the United States.

He said: "Cuba votes for culture, the United States for ignorance. Cuba for industrialization, the United States for underdevelopment. Cuba for truth, the United States for the lie. Cuba for liberation, the United States for oppression. Cuba for socialism, the United States for capitalism."

"Revolution is inevitable," he said. "It is determined by the conditions of misery in which man lives in Latin America."

Castro said the United States had suffered a major defeat at the Punta del Este foreign ministers conference which ended last Thursday.

The bearded prime minister said only Washington's "ministry of colonies" (13 of the 21 OAS nations) went along with the successful U.S. drive to order Cuba's ouster from inter-American agencies.

Bolstered by the sea of supporters before him and messages of support from the Soviet Union and Red China, Castro claimed the massive turnout proved "this is the most democratic government" in the Americas.

Police Action Averts Riot At Chestertown

Another Freedom Ride Due Saturday

By The Associated Press
The Civic Interest Group of Maryland (CIG) said Sunday night it would stage another freedom ride to Chestertown next Saturday.

Only quick intervention by State Police last Saturday prevented a similar ride to the Kent County town from erupting into a full-scale race riot.

In its statement Sunday, CIG said it "will not allow itself to be intimidated by unruly crowds. Free State segregationists would do well to remember that acts of violence committed against those peacefully protesting racial injustice will be met by renewed efforts on the part of those seeking to remove the blight of racial discrimination from Maryland."

Some 250 white and Negro demonstrators descended on the Eastern Shore community of 4,100 Saturday to protest racial segregation in restaurants and lunch counters.

When a group of 17 approached a tavern on the outskirts of town, they were chased by a mob of white patrons armed with beer bottles. Placards were ripped from the hands of the integrationists and at least one suffered minor injuries in the melee. Thirty-seven State Police cars converged on the scene, sirens screaming, to disperse the mob.

Two hours later, some 200 angry Negroes, most of them local residents, converged on the same tavern, owned by Grover Hubbard of Chestertown. They were met at the door by 40 to 50 white patrons. Again, police intervened to prevent a general outbreak of violence.

Three persons were arrested during the second disturbance. Two Negroes were charged with disorderly conduct and a white man was charged with assault and battery. The assault case stemmed from an attack on a State Police photographer, who was in civilian clothes. Police said the attacker apparently mistook him for a newsman.

All three arrested were freed on bond of $100 each.

Meanwhile, other demonstrators carried out protests against the segregated policies of eating facilities in Easton, Centerville, Cambridge and Kent Island.

In Cambridge, police arrested five persons on charges stemming from the protests—four of them demonstrators. The four, all Negroes from Cambridge, were charged with disorderly conduct and released on bond of $100 apiece.

The fifth person arrested was a white man, also from Cambridge, who was charged with assault and battery on one of the protesters. He, too, was released under $100 bond.

There were no incidents or arrests in Easton, Centerville or Kent Island. Most restaurants refused service to the demonstrators, but they left voluntarily after the trespass act was read to them.

Philip H. Savage, area secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, charged that State Police were negligent in not having more officers in the Chestertown area.

Savage said the State Police did nothing to control the mob in Chestertown, and had only two officers on duty at the tavern where the major disturbance occurred despite the fact that they knew a bad situation existed there.

"Anarchy ruled in Chestertown... rather than democracy," Savage said.

Saturday's demonstrations were the seventh in as many weeks on the Eastern Shore.

The heaviest rainfall in the world occurs on the southern slopes of the Himalayan Mountains in northern India.

Thurmond Hits, Javits Defends Urban Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican defended and a Democrat attacked the urban affairs department proposal Sunday as a part of a fresh outpouring of political pronouncements about President Kennedy's programs.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., accused Kennedy of "clouding the issue" by announcing he would name Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver as the first Negro Cabinet member if a new department were established.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said he supports the urban affairs proposal and deprecates the idea that any Republicans are against it because they are against equal opportunities for Negroes.

In barrage of taped television and radio weekend programs aimed at their constituents, some Republicans attacked Kennedy's farm, tax and U.N. bond proposals.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., suggested it would be difficult to get civil rights legislation before the Senate because he said "we will have to face an unsympathetic presiding officer" in Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Thurmond, who is already at war with the administration for what he calls the "muzzling" of military officers, labeled as unconstitutional Kennedy's proposal to create a new urban department by a reorganization plan.

"My position in opposition to this proposal is determined on its principal lack of merit—the proposal constitutes a flagrant violation of the Constitution," he said. Javits said he will fight for Kennedy's plan in the Senate.

Javits joined with Keating in calling for early Senate action on an administration-sponsored bill which would establish a sixth-grade education as the only literacy qualification needed to vote in a federal election.

Javits and Keating differed on Kennedy's request for authority to purchase $100 million in U.N. bonds.

Javits said he is "very sympathetic" toward the request but had "a feeling we ought to know who's going to buy the other $100 million."

Keating said there is a "big if" as to whether the $200-million bond issue would bail out the United Nations financially. In any event, he said he doesn't believe the United States should buy more than one-third of the total.

Novel Life-Saving Attempt Futile

LONDON (AP)—Three muscular firemen exerted themselves to the point of total exhaustion in a novel but futile attempt to save the life of a man suffering from hemophilia in a Worthing hospital.

The patient, David Thorogood, whose leg was broken in a car crash last month, died early Sunday. His blood, oozing from a wound, would not clot and numerous transfusions were ineffective.

Firemen who had been supplying blood had heard that blood of extremely tired men clots more readily, and a physician agreed to make an experiment. Under the physician's supervision three men did violent exercises for several hours in a gymnasium before giving more blood.

Said John Beale, one of the firemen: "It didn't work, but we were glad to make the effort."

Couple Finds Son's Body In Family Car

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—A wealthy Albanus Phillips Jr., found the body of their 18-year-old son Sunday on the back seat of the family car, parked in the garage.

Cambridge couple, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, said the body of their son was found on the back seat of the family car, parked in the garage. The car was found with the garage doors closed, and the body was found on the back seat.

Dr. John Mace, medical examiner for Dorchester County, said young Phillips had been dead several hours when found, and the cause of death was not known. Mace ordered an autopsy by Dr. Peter Reickert, pathologist at the Cambridge-Maryland Hospital.

12 Stock Market Figures Face Tax Fraud Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is preparing criminal tax fraud cases against at least a dozen stock market figures. A prominent Wall Streeter closely identified with the New York Stock Exchange is understood to be among those involved.

It was learned Sunday that a tentative decision has been made to present the most sensational case, the one involving the man with stock exchange ties, to a federal grand jury in New York this week.

The present timetable is subject to approval at a special conference of federal prosecutors Monday.

Well-posted sources said that if the case reaches the courts, it might be the most sensational criminal prosecution of a Wall Street personality since Richard Whitney, former president of the New York Stock Exchange, was jailed for grand larceny in 1938 and Exchange Commission.

Chief Executive Hears Sermon On Good Reading

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP) — President Kennedy, a voracious speed-reader, heard a sermon Sunday on the benefits of good reading and some advice to do more of it.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy are spending the weekend at their rented hunt country estate, Glen Ora. With the temperature pushing toward 60, they motored to the Middleburg Community Center to attend noon Mass.

The Rev. Albert F. Pereira noted that this is Reading Day in the Roman Catholic diocese of Virginia and keyed his sermon to the occasion.

"Don't give all your free time to radio and TV," he suggested. "Let's give some time to reading."

State's Traffic Toll Reaches 34

By The Associated Press
The deaths of two Baltimorean pedestrians Saturday raised Maryland's highway death toll for the year to 34—compared with 31 this time a year ago.

Fires claimed the lives of two other persons in Maryland.

And a 39-year-old Baltimore woman, Ida Dunston, died Sunday after she was struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad train in the city.

Baltimore police said one of the pedestrians, Handy Taylor, 77, died at Maryland General Hospital as the result of an accident Jan. 16.

Another pedestrian, Georgia Bond, was struck and killed by a car shortly before midnight at an intersection near her home. She was dead on arrival at Provident Hospital.

In another accident Saturday, Pamela Redmond, 7, of Glen Burnie, in suburban Baltimore, was fatally injured when a car in which she was riding ran off the road and struck a tree near Glen Burnie. Her mother, Mrs. Margaret L. Schaefer, 37, who was driving, was in serious condition in South Baltimore General Hospital.

At Kensington, in Montgomery County, James Tillson, 62-year-old retired Navy yard employee, died Saturday in a fire which destroyed his home. Police said the fire was discovered by a next-door neighbor who was awakened when her cat, "Galoshes," wanted to get outside.

Another fire victim Saturday was Mary Allen, 62, of Easton. She died of asphyxiation in a fire in a six-unit apartment building.

Police Plan Endorsed

BALTIMORE (AP) — County prosecutors, meeting in mid-week session, gave qualified approval Saturday to a plan which would assign six Maryland State Police-men as a special intelligence unit on organized crime in the state.

Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan explained the plan to the state's attorneys Friday. Finan said he made the proposal after his deputy, Joseph S. Kaufman, had discussed it informally with the prosecutors.

Ruptured Men Get $3.50 Gift for Trying This

Kansas City, Mo.—Here is an improved means of holding rupture that has benefitted thousands of ruptured men and women in the last year.

Technological School Called Maryland Need

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Maryland is becoming a center for advanced science and industrial research and development but needs to overcome several deficiencies to insure rapid growth, according to a report released by Gov. Tawes.

One of the greatest needs cited was for a strong technological school on the order of Massachusetts Institute of Technology or the California Institute of Technology.

The 167-page report is the first effort to evaluate the state's assets, deficiencies and potential as an environment for advanced science and industrial research and development.

The report contains the proceedings of the Maryland Science-Industry Conference held last May under the auspices of the Maryland Department of Economic Development.

A letter by Gov. Tawes, transmitting the report to members of the General Assembly and other interested individuals Saturday, indicated his administration is co-operating with leaders of education and industry to develop plans along the lines suggested by the report.

The report said the Maryland-District of Columbia complex "has a cultural, scientific, and intellectual environment which is fertile and in which both research and development and science-based industry are already growing, but not necessarily at the greatest possible rate."

The complex, consisting of most of Central Maryland from the Chesapeake Bay to Hancock, Md., and from Washington, D. C., to the Pennsylvania border, has a little of each of the basic elements needed to make a science-industry complex, the report said.

Hub City Drug Stores Restrict Sunday Sales

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — The state's attorney's office in Washington County is cracking down on Sunday sales as a result of complaints from various organizations.

Three large chain drug stores restricted their sales Sunday to lunch counter food, medicine, cigarettes and some other types of essential merchandise.

'Inquest' Support Urged

LANHAM, Md. (AP)—Del. Carl R. Sickles, D-Prince Georges, asked support Sunday of all members of the Maryland House of Delegates for his proposal of a grand inquest by the legislature into "abuses in the savings and loan field."

Sickles, chairman of the House Labor Committee, said the inquiry is necessary to determine the cause of the problem, whether existing safeguards are adequate, and what relief is available "to those who became a part of the tragedy merely by trusting in their government."

In a memorandum to all other members of the House of Delegates, Sickles said all of Maryland, and particularly those whose savings are involved in bankrupt institutions, will be watching the legislative session starting Feb. 7 "to see if their legislature will meet its responsibility by providing all available aid to those injured by our past inaction."

Among the Tuareg of the Sahara wastes, men, not women, veil their faces. Fierce and fearless, these nomads of the blue veil believe that hard manual labor dishonors them. One of their sayings is, "Sham enters with the plow."

Far Right: What's Ahead?

EDITOR'S NOTE—The far right has attracted much attention lately, though its political leverage seems hard to gauge. Has the movement reached its high water mark? This last of six articles on the ultraconservatives considers their outlook for the future.

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Special Correspondent

What lies ahead for the hard right?

The movement has risen rapidly, proliferating in hundreds of different groups, attracting thousands of Americans, acquiring huge sums of money. Is the tide likely to rise still higher? Or will it run its course and then evaporate into the sands of oblivion?

One rightist leader urges a great coalition of all the various groups. Could this develop?

If it should, what are the political implications? A third major party? Permanent impotence for the Republicans? Or will the rightists, working through the existing parties, attempt to achieve their purposes by capturing enough seats in Congress and the state legislatures?

These questions agitate many Americans, the rightist himself, his opponents, and the observer in the middle.

"Don't let them (the rightists) worry you very much," said former President Harry S. Truman in Los Angeles. "They are so volatile they blow themselves out."

"I'd just say these people are self-defeating," said former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society, says the society is steadily gaining strength. His goal is a million members. He doesn't disclose the total now.

The Boston Herald quoted him as saying: "While the society is larger and stronger than a year ago, it hasn't increased in numbers over the past three or four months as it did in the preceding months."

T. Coleman Andrews, former director of the Internal Revenue Service, a member of the society, said the increasing strength of the hard right was the reason for the critical speech by President Kennedy. "That is why the President took time out to lambaste us," he said. "You don't shoot at dead horses."

Pot shots at the rightists have come from all quarters. Scores of newspaper editorials and magazine articles have ripped into the hard right, accusing it of "dividing the nation," and "undermining the confidence of Americans in their leaders."

Others have aimed the sharp lance of ridicule at the movement. Right-wingers readily tell you that it is not uncommon for a person to drop out of a group shortly after joining. A whole chapter of Birchers in Franklin, Tenn., disbanded last year after five months. An ex-member said, "We found there was a sharp difference between Welch's opinions and our own, and we got out."

On the whole, however, the bigger groups claim they are gaining members and this may be a fact. Observers disagree as to whether the movement has reached its high water mark.

Now what are the chances for a great merger of the groups on the hard right?

The Rev. Billy James Hargis, leader of the Christian Crusade and We, the People, recently announced plans to form a coalition. But rightist leaders generally doubt that a grand alliance will ever come into being.

Dr. Frederick C. Schwarz, founder of the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade, said: "I don't believe in using collectivism to fight collectivism. Our strength lies in a multiplicity of organizations, liberty of conscience, and com stition."

As for the potential political effects of the hard right, some Republicans are already alarmed. Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said, "to accept its philosophies would result in causing the GOP to lose touch with the mainstream of American life, insuring permanent minority status, or total eclipse of Republicanism."

Welch generally downgrades both major parties. He said, however, that it might be necessary for the time being to work within them.

In the future, two areas of activity could serve as barometers of the gaining, or waning, strength of the hard right—pressures on congressmen via organized letter-writing campaigns, and on newspapers with several weapons.

Says a Birch bulletin of one of its campaigns, "We put a total of some 600,000 pieces of mail into the effort."

Newspapers that criticized the rightists were threatened with loss of circulation and advertising. "Use the power of the purse," says a pamphlet. It advises its adherent to let the editor know, in no uncertain terms, why they cancel a subscription.

Some observers say the hard right will simply wither away.

But others believe the movement grew out of the fears and frustrations inherent in the American struggle against communism. Since they expect this struggle to last for years, they think the hard right will do the same.

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠K6 ♥642 ♦KQ3 ♣J9874

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—This hand is a little too good for a simple raise in clubs. Some mild effort should be made to encourage partner to go on, and the best choice is one no trump which, over a club, indicates from nine to 11 points.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠Q5 ♥72 ♦A93 ♣KJ10983

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass 1♠ 3♦ ?

What do you bid?
A.—East's preempt has jammed up the bidding and your best action is somewhat of a guess. There no trump seems a reasonable choice on the ground that nine tricks should be easier to win than 11.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠Q83 ♥AK ♦108654 ♣QJ3

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two no trump. Normally a count of 13 points is required for a jump to two no trump, but after a previous pass this action may be taken with 11 or 12. A jump to three diamonds is not recommended because partner with a doubtful holding in the major suits may not be able to bid no trump, and your hand, despite five diamonds, is of the balanced type.

Q. 4—You are vulnerable, the opponents have a 30 part score and as South you hold:
♠AKJ10965 ♥AK ♦K1093

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass 1♠ 2♠ Pass
2♥ 3♠ 3♠ 4♠
Double Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four spades. While we are disinclined to override a double at this level, we feel that partner in this sequence might not visualize this seven card spade suit. If he has so much as the jack of diamonds for us, we can score a vulnerable game. On the other hand it might prove that the opposition can be punished no more than 100 points.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠632 ♥84 ♦10973 ♣AQ64

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 1♠ Double Pass
2♠ Pass 3♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Four hearts. Two small trumps are not considered adequate support on which to offer a raise, but North's bid shows at least a good six card suit and our six points should be enough to produce a reasonable play for game.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠AQ1063 ♥4 ♦KQ852 ♣J2

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass
2♥ Pass 2♦ Pass
2♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—We would advise you to quit while the quitting is good. This is obviously a misfit and the best place to play such hands is at as low a level as is convenient. One more bid by you may start a barrage of doubles from the enemy. Remember four suits do not necessarily spell three no trump.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠542 ♥AK2 ♦K10865 ♣AK

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1NT Pass 3♠ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Generally in this situation a raise is offered to partner, but with all our values located in the other suits we would prefer to bid three no trump and avoid developments. If partner's hand is highly unbalanced, he may take control of the situation himself.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠862 ♥KJ7542 ♦8 ♣Q83

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♥ 2♦ Pass ?

What do you bid?
A.—Pass. A two heart bid is not recommended. Partner has described a hand whose virtues are to be found principally in the diamond suit. If he were interested in hearts, he would have doubled first and then shown his diamonds.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What are your views on suicide? Do you think a suicide attempt is a sign that a person is insecure?

I've heard that some people make a show of committing suicide just to attract attention or to make another person feel sorry for them. How do you go about finding out if the suicide attempt was sincere?

Also, have you ever heard of anyone who actually died from slashing his wrist? This is done a lot in the movies but I've never heard of it actually working in real life.

Please print this letter because a lot of people would like to know the answers but they are ashamed to ask for fear someone might think they are contemplating suicide themselves.—NOT ME

DEAR NOT YOU: A person so depressed that death seems more desirable than life is desperately disturbed. To describe such a person as "insecure" is the same as describing a cancer patient as "not feeling well."

An individual who is determined to end his life usually succeeds. If a first attempt fails he'll try again. For example, the woman who wishes only to frighten or punish her husband or her lover may swallow a handful of pills, or she may scratch her wrists with a razor. The woman who means business will put a gun to her temple or she'll jump out of a 23-story window. She knows that no one can step in at the last moment and "save" her.

Wrist-slashing of course, can be fatal but usually it is a dramatic attempt to attract attention.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you receive a lot of questions that are hard to answer and you do pretty well, but I'll bet you have never run into this one before.

I go with a boy who wears glasses. How far down should his sideburns come? My boy friend's sideburns are about three inches lower than his glass frames and he looks like a hood.

Please print this letter if you agree with me. If you don't agree with me, just skip it.

— NO SQUARE

DEAR NO SQUARE: I don't care for long sideburns — with or without glasses. Here's your letter and I hope it helps.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I was 17 I got mixed up with a no-good skunk. I was a know-it-all kid and nobody could tell me anything. I ran off with him and we lived in one rat-trap after another. He kept telling me we'd get married "later."

He claimed he had a job at a garage. I called up one day and they had never heard of him. I figured he was getting his money in some crooked way and I was right. When the police came, he denied everything and told me not to worry. He got three years for armed robbery. I was then four months pregnant.

I went home and begged my folks to take me in. They did. Now I have a darling two-year old son. I had a letter from the skunk yesterday saying he'll be out on parole soon. He claims we are automatically married in the eyes of the law because of the baby. I'm scared to death of him but I never want to see him again. What can I do? — MOLLY

DEAR MOLLY: There's no such thing as an "automatic marriage." Write and inform him that if he comes near your house you'll notify his parole officer. If he threatens you, get police protection. You owe him nothing.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send I ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TOKYO (UPI) — The Chinese Communists announced Sunday in a Peiping radio broadcast they were suspending the shelling of the Quemoy Islands until after the Chinese New Year Monday.

ABL Employees To Give Blood Today, Tuesday

Employees of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Rocket Center, W. Va., will donate blood today and tomorrow when the Red Cross Bloodmobile unit from Johnstown, Pa., visits the facility.

Quota for the two-day visit is 200 pints, said Herman I. Smith, plant coordinator, who said ABL-ers gave 301 pints during a plant visit last August.

He feels confident the employees will again respond to the appeal for blood.

Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of the RC blood program in Allegany County, said ABL not only holds the record for one-stop donations, but also was the first to request that regular visits be made by the bloodmobile unit, and is the first to schedule a two-day visit.

Firemen Check Smoke Scare

Firemen from West Side station yesterday afternoon were called to 615 Greene Street where a smoke scare was checked.

They said a damper on the coal furnace in the dwelling clogged up and smoke seeped into the house. They opened the damper and ventilated the premises. Firemen received the call at 12:16 p. m.

Firemen To Map Plans For Bazar

The bazar committee of the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company will meet tonight at 7:30 to map plans for the annual bazar which will be held July 16-21.

David E. Kirk and George Mahoney, co-chairmen, said last night that volunteer firemen and auxiliary members of the various committees are urged to attend the meeting at the fire hall.

Lee said of Brewster Saturday: "We wonder now if, in his new role of political boss, he would also urge all those other Baltimore County politicians supporting his candidacy and who have shared benefits or who have participated in the operation of Security Financial ... to step down from office."

Other Developments
In other political developments during the weekend:
1. David Hume, who is opposing Tawes for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, called again for tax relief for victims of savings and loan failures.
2. Del. Alexander Stark, D-Balto 5th, promised to introduce a bill to impose a tax of 10 cents on each $100 deposited in savings and loan associations.

3. Another opponent of Tawes in the governor's race, George P. Mahoney, outlined employment programs he would push if he is elected.

4. Dr. Clarence D. Long, candidate for congressman from the state's 2nd District, called on President Kennedy to sponsor measures which would bring peace to the Middle East, end Arab slavery and end Arab discrimination against American Jews.

Hume also announced the appointment of Mrs. H. Stewart Dunn Jr. of Bethesda as vice chairman of his state campaign committee.

A meeting of the Ridgeley High School Boosters Club which was scheduled for this evening has been postponed until a later date due to the meeting of the County Council tonight at Wiley Ford School.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Beauty And The Back!

Out of sight, out of mind—that's what usually happens to the back in beauty care. We're all a bit like ostriches when it comes to the hard-to-reach places we cannot see.

The trouble is, Dame Fashion has no patience with female ostiches. Her styles put backs on display all year round these days. Shoulders, too. So, even if the wearers can't see their backs, other people can—and do!

A beautiful back and shoulders take time to achieve. Looking ahead to spring and summer, right now is none too soon to give back-grooming some special attention.

The best place to begin is the bathtub. Daily soaking in softened bath suds, coupled with massage-like scrubbing with an oh-so-gentle back brush, will work wondrous improvement.

You may find it difficult to find the time for a long daily soak like this—but you won't find it nearly so hard as trying to make yourself comfortable in the tub while your back is immersed in water. That's where this hint will be helpful: Fold a big, fluffy bath towel into a "pillow" and place it at the back of your head for support while you recline and relax—and rejuvenate all over!

What you want to do for your back and shoulders is just about the same as your aim for your face. You want the skin to look fresh and smooth, free of blemishes, glowing with good health. Soap and water... and the stimulation of a high-friction scrubdown will soon have your back the way you want it, if you continue this care with faithful regularity. It will stay that way if you keep back-grooming among your daily beauty habits.

Lucky you, if a member of your family agrees to be available as your "automatic back scrubber" every day. But, if not, you can invent your own handy massager to stir up circulation round those shoulder blades — again, with trusty terry cloth.

To carry out this back-beauty hint, cut a four-inch strip from an old bath towel, the longest one you can spare. Lather this strip, grasp the ends firmly in your hands and work the sudsy strip all over your back, in your own sit-down version of "the twist."

Sending now for my summary on "Summerizing Your Beauty," will give you an early start on preparations for a "pretty" pleasant spring and summer. This pamphlet is available when you address me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, for just 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Area Parkway Conference Set For Today

Byrd Schedules Road Discussion

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., will hold a conference here Monday on the Allegheny Parkway, a proposed scenic highway that would traverse 16 West Virginia counties.

The meeting was set up in Charleston in order that legislative representatives of the counties involved could participate. The 30-day budget session of the West Virginia Legislature ends at midnight Thursday.

The proposed "parkway" would cut through the Eastern Panhandle, the Monongahela National Forest and also through some of the Southern border counties of West Virginia. It would begin at Hagerstown, Md., and terminate near the Cumberland Gap on the Kentucky-Virginia-Tennessee border.

Byrd and Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., have already introduced legislation in Congress calling for construction of the highway. It would cost an estimated $500 million and cover approximately 550 miles, of which 360 miles would traverse West Virginia.

It would intersect the West Virginia counties of Jefferson, Berkeley, Morgan, Hampshire, Mineral, Grant, Randolph, Hardy, Pocahontas, Greenbrier, Monroe, Summers, Mercer, McDowell, Mingo and Fayette.

Shepherd Opens Keyser Class

KEYSER — Tuesday at 7 p. m. is the final day for registration in the Shepherd College extension class here, according to Dr. A. G. Slonaker, academic dean.

Dr. Slonaker said this will be the last chance for enrollment in the class entitled "The Teaching of Science in the Elementary Schools."

The class was organized last Tuesday in the Keyser High School building, where regular weekly meetings will be held.

Professor William Michaels of Potomac State College has been employed by Shepherd College to teach the course. The full tuition for the course, which carries two hours credit, for one semester will be $23 for both in-state and out-of-state students, Dr. Slonaker said.

The course is of particular value to elementary teachers and to any other individuals who work with children at the elementary grade level, Dr. Slonaker said.

Deaths And Funeral Notices In The Tri-State Area

MRS. JOHN GORMAN

Mrs. Ella Elizabeth Gorman, 73, former resident, died suddenly Saturday at Springfield State Hospital where she had been a patient several years.

Born in Cumberland, she was a daughter of the late Milton and Harriett (Brotmarkle) Hite. Her husband, John Gorman, died in 1958.

Her only survivor is a son, John T. Gorman, this city.

The body is at the Silcox Funeral Residence where the family will receive friends today from 7 to 9 p. m. and tomorrow from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Services will be conducted Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. at the funeral home by Rev. Ralph E. Burnette, pastor of First Christian Church.

MISS EVA RIEHL

Miss Eva Riehl, 83, formerly of 622 Maryland Avenue, died Saturday in Allegheny County Infirmary where she had been a patient since 1955.

A native of Cumberland, Miss Riehl was a daughter of the late Jacob and Griesman (Christian) Riehl. Miss Riehl was a member of St. Luke's Lutheran Church and was employed as a bookkeeper at Swift and Company prior to her retirement.

She is survived by four nephews, William F. Mackey, Akron, Ohio; Harold H. Mackey, Warrenton, Ohio; and Louis and Walter Riehl, both of Cumberland, and a niece, Mrs. William Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

MRS. TURNER T. SUMMERS

Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Summers, 43, wife of Turner T. Summers, 849 Mt. Royal Avenue, died yesterday morning at her home. Death was reportedly due to a heart attack.

She was employed as a time clerk at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

A native of Chicago, Ill., she was a daughter of the late William M. and Marie (Twigg) Ritchey. Mrs. Summers was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Besides her husband she is survived by two sons, William T. Summers and Gary R. Summers, and a daughter, Susan M. Summers.

Also surviving is a brother, William H. Ritchey, city.

The body is at Stein's Funeral Home where friends will be received today from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

TWIGGS SERVICES

Deadline For Candidates To File Passes

Mailed Certificates To Be Accepted

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The secretary of state's office said Sunday it had received several additional certificates of candidacy for the May 8 West Virginia primary.

The deadline for filing was midnight Saturday, but not all the certificates were received by that time. As long as a letter has a postmark prior to the deadline, the filing will be entered on the ballot.

The candidacy of Republican Rep. Arch Moore, who is expected to oppose Democrat Rep. Cleveland Bailey in the 1st District, had not been received as of Sunday, but it was expected to arrive by Monday.

Among the letters of candidacy received Sunday was one from M. G. Guthrie, of Charleston, who seeks the Republican nomination to Congress from the 3rd District. Glenn Taylor of Matewan, a Democrat, also filed for re-election to his State Senate post from the 6th District.

Other filings opened Sunday included:

A. C. Mazza of Clarksburg, Democrat, State Senate, 13th District; John J. Cox of Milton, Democrat, State Senate, 5th District; Nye King of Huntington, Democrat, State Senate, 5th District; K. Brent Johnson of Martinsburg, Republican, State Senate, 16th District; R. E. Bell, of Manila, Boone County, Democrat, State Senate, 7th District, and Kenneth W. Metz of Charles Town, Democrat, State Senate, 16th District.

College Offers New Course

FROSTBURG—Frostburg State Teachers College is offering a ten-hour block course, "The Elementary School Child and His Curriculum" (Ed. 304), according to Dr. Raymond O. McCullough, head of the Education Department at FSTC.

"The block program in itself is not new, but the practical application of the method immediately after it has been taught affords the prospective teachers the opportunity of turning theory into practice at once," Homer Pankey, instructor, said.

"The program has several unique characteristics," Pankey added. "Previously, the elementary program included 16 semester hours of professional methods, including science, social science, art, physical education, arithmetic, music, language arts and principles of elementary education."

"There was a lack of unity between these courses and the elementary school curriculum which has been eliminated in the new ten hour block. Not only are all the methods united in a continuous curriculum development, which is taught in a unified way, but there is a saving of six semester hours for additional academic courses."

St. Michael's PTA Sponsors Party

FROSTBURG — The second in the series of three card parties sponsored by St. Michael's PTA will be held today at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the school. Bridge, Five Hundred and Canasta will be played and refreshments will be served. Mrs. Nick Centofanti and Mrs. Bernard Kenney are in charge assisted by the mothers of the fourth and fifth grade.

The winners of the previous card party were Mrs. Rae Pugh and Roy Beachy, Five Hundred; and Mrs. Frances Driscoll, Bridge. A prize will be awarded the person with the highest score for the three combined card parties.

Robert Brannon served as pledge marshal and conducted a pledge period in which brotherhood, scholarship and "help week" were stressed.

Society Will Meet

FROSTBURG — The Ladies Aid Society of Salem United Church of Christ will meet today at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Martha Hosken and Mrs. Anita Hartig will be co-hostesses. All women of the church are members of the society and a special welcome is issued to those who do not regularly attend.

Guild Will Meet

FROSTBURG — The Ladies Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will meet today at 8 p. m. in the Sunday School room with Mrs. Margaret Mullen in charge of the devotional service.

Mrs. Glyn Geis will give readings and Cynthia Rendar, piano solos. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Geis, Mrs. Emma Shaw, Mrs. Noel Cook, Mrs. Minnie Hohing and Mrs. Catherine Hohing.

Hardy County Prisoner Escapes Farm

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI)—Four prisoners, including two from Marion County, turned up missing early Sunday at nearby Camp Fairchance, Moundsville Penitentiary's honor farm.

They were identified as Charles E. Rickwell, 31, sentenced from Hardy County on a breaking and entering charge; Donald Chambers, 28, and Edward Smalley, 29, both serving breaking and entering sentences from Marion County, and Mickey Vanater, 31, serving a life sentence as a habitual criminal from Kanawha County.

Meanwhile, Upshur County authorities were still on the lookout for two prisoners who escaped Saturday from the County jail at Buckhannon.

Willis E. Wyatt, 26, of Cleveland, Webster County, and Billy Gene Cobb, 27, of Cowen, were awaiting transfer to Moundsville at the time of their escape.

Wyatt has been sentenced on a forgery conviction, while Cobb was charged with parole violation. The two broke a bar from a first floor window at the jail and then fled through an alley.

'Our Inarticulate Public Officials

From the sound of them, many men in public life today are unable to speak English effectively. Robbed of the crutch provided by a text, or a Teletypewriter if they are speaking on television, they at once become mumbling members of the "Ander-er Club." In a word, they are bores.

It is not surprising that the public is so often accused of indifference to important issues of the day when politicians are unable to speak articulately and so give the impression of sincere belief in what they are saying.

The "bloopers" are bad enough, but the hesitations, the tired clinches and the commonplace thoughts, so often in dreary evidence when texts are not used, are much harder for captive audiences to bear.

Perhaps the day will come when a book of "don'ts" will be written for those who aspire to public office. In this happy volume, if it is ever written, is it too much to hope that time-encrusted cliché "I should like to take this occasion to congratulate (or thank) Mr. —" will receive its death blow and be replaced by the less verbose and more effective "I congratulate (or thank) Mr. —"?

The cause of much poor speaking is "muddy thinking" and ignorance of the fact that spoken English is a beautiful and effective instrument. As standards decline, good examples become rare. A new generation knows nothing of the orotund oratory of Winston Churchill, the splendid phrases, the perfect timing which made actors envious, the rich drama of the content and the universal appeal.

Yet, as a young man, Churchill lisped and suffered from almost-paralyzing stage fright. These he overcame magnificently. The long-suffering public should insist that its politicians strive to be articulate even if they cannot attain to Churchill's mastery.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Humanity Guild, Inc.

I have a circular which asks me to contribute money. It comes from "Humanity Guild, Inc." It wants the money to bring about immediate peace, which it cannot, of course, do. Whether we shall have peace or war depends upon many forces and personalities, upon the effects of many errors of judgment in Soviet Russia and the United States, in Great Britain and France and among the 104 nations that constitute the United Nations.

The circular asking me for money starts thus:
"Will you save my life?????"
"Since I may not mean anything to you . . .
"Will you save your life?????"
"Will you save your children's lives?????"
"Humanity Guild, Inc. provides you with your opportunity to act now to avoid the catastrophe which faces you and your family."

This strikes me as silly talk by someone who writes emotional prose. The fellow wants me to save his life when I do not know that his particular life is in danger. The lives of some of the members of my family may be in danger or soon will be, for they are or will be in the armed forces of their country. I do not expect that a few dollars will serve to rescue them from the cowardice that the writer of the frantic circular wishes them to display.

The circular says:
"The only immediate solution for peace on earth now is total disarmament which should include the elimination of all stockpiles of atom bombs at once from all countries which possess its capabilities for destruction of the world and mankind."

Precisely how does its writer plan to achieve total disarmament? The United States has been in negotiation with Soviet Russia on this subject since about 1945 and has got nowhere. In fact, the United Nations was organized to achieve this end. But Soviet Russia has vetoed every measure for peace. Are we to crawl on our knees before the big bosses in the Kremlin? Are we to lie on our bellies and have their tanks roll over us as they rolled over the Hungarians and the Tibetans?

Presumably there are all sorts of circulars being issued which are designed to weaken our resistance to our enemy. This particular circular is frightening:
"What if a nuclear attack is coupled with a gas or bacteria attack?"

"What if the H-bomb jackets are made of cobalt, which would increase fallout immeasurably?"
"What if instead of ground bursts the bombs are exploded at high altitudes?"

Fritz Kreisler, who died a few days ago, was hit by a truck and became blind and deaf. Shall we therefore abolish trucks? Shall we murder all truck-drivers? I loved Fritz, but I am sure that because a truck brought misery to the last years of his life, I do not want to return to an ox-cart or a camel or a mule.

Nor do I want to become a slave of the Kremlin. Why do not these lovers of peace go to Moscow and issue their circulars on the Red Square? Why do they not get the miserable peasant, Khrushchev, to agree to a world program of unselfish peace? It would seem that their solution to the problems that face the United States today is to lie down and die while the Russians march over our bodies.

No! I shall not contribute a nickel to "Humanity Guild, Inc." Instead, I shall pay my taxes for arms to be ready to fight Soviet Russia.

The last line of the circular says: "Humanity Guild, Inc. is a non-profit organization."

I have grown tired of so-called non-profit organizations. In fact when a non-profit organization hereafter sends me a circular asking for money, I am going to ask for a detailed expense account. It is easier and tax-wise smarter to get no salary at all, but to have enormous expense accounts for hotel bills and airplanes and travel hither and yon. When a money collector comes my way asking for dollars for a non-profit organization, I shall ask him the details of his livelihood. Where does he get the dough to buy his wife's dresses? Or who paid for his automobile?

Let us not be tricked by circulars and smart words. We have a war that this year will run our budget up to $92,000,000,000. As a taxpayer, I want to win that war and end it.

Over The Shortstop's Head

The Civilian High Command And Our Strategy

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — The most curious and least noted development of President Kennedy's first year in office is the shift in responsibility for basic military decisions. The big decisions are now being mainly made by two civilians, the President himself and Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara.

These two, plus the members of McNamara's staff who are also mostly civilians, have had far more to do with the new American defense design than our statutory defense-designers, the Joint Chiefs of Staff. One result has been considerable heart-burning in the uniformed services.

The heart-burning might have been avoided if the leaders of the services had been able to surmount their inveterate inability to agree among themselves—for it is hard to imagine even as bold a man as the Secretary of Defense resisting the unanimous advice of the Joint Chiefs.

But in the absence of unanimous advice from the Chiefs, McNamara and the President have used their own judgement to a degree without precedent, at least since James V. Forrestal in effect killed himself by personally preparing the 1949 defense budget — which President Truman and Louis Johnson then cut to ribbons. The consequence of this civilian exercise of judgement has been a happy infusion of political-strategic realism.

To begin with the deterrent, the doctrine of the late Eisenhower era was based on President Eisenhower's oft-repeated assertion that the U. S. "would never strike first with nuclear weapons." The Air Force did its best to change the doctrine, but the planning was still based on a "second-strike deterrent."

Both the President and McNamara early concluded, however, that a deterrent only capable of striking second was highly unlikely to deter anything at all, except a nuclear first strike. From this conclusion was born the new deterrent design, providing a much larger margin of nuclear striking power.

Another result was the festering row between McNamara and the Air Force, about forward procurement of strategic aircraft. At the heart of this row was, and is, the simple fact that in the rocket age, even the fastest aircraft are essentially second-strike weapons. This is because the other side can launch his rockets before the attacking aircraft can reach their targets.

The increase in the deterrent's striking power means, in effect that we are now building the kind of deterrent that could be used for a first strike in really desperate circumstances — the kind of circumstances in which Britain fought on against Hitler. This in turn gives substance to what the insiders called "raising the threshold."

"Raising the threshold" simply signified increasing the conventional military power of the Western alliance, to the point where Soviet forces would have to be directly employed in any attack on major Western positions. As briefly explained in a previous report, the theory is that the Soviet war planners will realize nuclear war must rapidly result from any direct confrontation of U. S. and U.S.S.R. armed forces.

By "raising the threshold," it is hoped to deprive the Soviet planners of their existing alternative to direct use of Soviet forces—by using satellite armies for instance. In these circumstances, if the Kremlin indeed expects nuclear war to result from a naked U.S.—U.S.S.R. confrontation, the nuclear deterrent will also deter a conventional attack.

Finally, the last leg of the tripod-like Kennedy-McNamara defense design is the enormously increased emphasis on "special forces" for use in underground and guerrilla warfare. Everyone has long known that this kind of warfare constituted by far the worst threat to every exposed Western position with the sole exception of Berlin. But very little was being done about it, mainly because the Pentagon could not imagine U. S. troops engaged in combat except in a full-scale, full-dress war.

At the President's and Secretary McNamara's insistence, and after much opposition, the Army has established a "special forces" organization under Brig. Gen. William B. Rosson, with direct access to the Army Chief of Staff. A similar unit is being established on the Joint Staff, under a Marine major general as yet to be selected.

More important still, the first "special forces" detachments have reached South Vietnam, and have entered combat there in the guise of "advisors" to President Diem's units. By an odd chance, the "advisors" also have orders to shoot back if they get shot at. This, in itself, is a fairly staggering innovation. It suggests that the new defense-designers are not only hard-headed about theory, but also hard-nosed in practice.

Currently, discussions between Russia and the West are proceeding slowly, with just enough hope of progress for them to continue.

Kennedy, sensitive to public criticism of his other major foreign policy efforts in Laos and Cuba, is determined not to make any premature claims about Berlin. He fears that if he does, Khrushchev will take some sharp adverse action just to demonstrate to the world that the U. S. is wrong.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

HEADS OF STATE—Re-election of Dr. Urho Kekkonen for another six-year term as president of Finland gives rise to an interesting question to which you may or may not know the answer:

Who in point of service is the oldest head of state in the world? Don't feel badly if you don't know the answer for few would, since he is really a she—66-year-old Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg, whose reign began Jan. 9, 1919. That's more than 43 years ago and, at that time, President Kennedy was barely a year and a half old!

The oldest head of state in point of age is Pope John XXIII, born Nov. 25, 1881.

BERLIN ISSUE—Although the U. S. public and administration foreign policy advisers are breathing a lot easier now that Khrushchev's original deadline for negotiations on Berlin have passed without overt action. President Kennedy leans toward the belief that the respite is a relatively unimportant concession.

Kennedy has steadfastly refused to accept credit for the strategy that has lengthened the stalemate there, although some of his foreign policy advisers would have liked to inject a note of victory in this area of foreign policy into his annual message to Congress.

Kennedy feels that the heart of the controversy, Western Power rights in Berlin, is still very much at issue; that nothing has transpired to indicate any softening in Russia's long-term goal of pushing the West out of Berlin.

Currently, discussions between Russia and the West are proceeding slowly, with just enough hope of progress for them to continue.

Kennedy, sensitive to public criticism of his other major foreign policy efforts in Laos and Cuba, is determined not to make any premature claims about Berlin. He fears that if he does, Khrushchev will take some sharp adverse action just to demonstrate to the world that the U. S. is wrong.

Can The Body Become Sensitive To Itself?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Can the body become sensitive to itself? Probably, provided we recognize an important new concept — the auto-immune response. The medical profession is in the throes of working on this theory, which may explain the cause of some of our most baffling diseases.

Immunity is a complex process. After an individual acquires an infection, the defense mechanism of the body goes to work and manufactures antibodies to fight the invading germs. It does the same to protect itself against tumor cells or any other foreign agent.

According to the new concept, the body is capable of producing antibodies against its own normal cells and evidence is mounting that this occurs in some persons. The process (auto-immunization) is a failure to recognize self. There is a breakdown in this system because it is not normal to develop antibodies against one's own tissues.

No one knows why certain people reject their own body cells, unless the characteristic is hereditary. But this is only part of the story. The auto-immune reaction is abnormal and makes itself felt in various organs of the body. It may destroy blood cells, for example, and produce anemia or a bleeding disorder. The joints may be affected, leading to arthritis; or the bowel, causing ulcerative colitis.

One of the strange reactions occurs in dermatomyositis, a rare skin and muscle disorder. Some of these patients have an internal cancer and tests show they have developed antibodies against the malignancy. The body becomes sensitized to the cancer and this in turn is responsible for the rash, fever and aching or dermatomyositis. Cures have been reported following removal of the cancer.

Scientists are working on drugs to counteract the natural immune processes that produce antibodies. Time will tell whether these products will prove curative in auto-immune diseases.

TOMORROW: Types of toppers. CIRCULATION

J. B. writes: Will massaging the legs of a 66 year old man help the circulation?

REPLY

Light massage might help but there are better ways to improve circulation. Walking helps some persons whereas others need medicine to dilate the blood vessels. Applying heat to the lower abdomen also is useful, especially huffily. "Your chauffeur has asthma."

By Drew Pearson

Capital News Capsules

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy, who has a contagious sense of humor, tells this story on his Secretary of Labor.

Recently, when Secretary Arthur Goldberg went mountain climbing, he was gone for some time and the people at the inn at the base of the mountain became worried and summoned help from the Red Cross. The Red Cross flew around the mountain in a helicopter, calling from a loud-speaker:

"Arthur Goldberg, this is the Red Cross. Arthur Goldberg, this is the Red Cross."

For a long time there was no answer. Finally a faint voice replied from down below:

"This is Goldberg. I gave through the office this year."

Snub To A Lady

Jockeying for committee position in the U.S. Senate may not mean much to the outsider. But insiders know it can affect U.S. policy and laws which the American people have to live under.

During five Congresses the late Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire rose to his feet at the opening session to announce that he wished to step aside as ranking member of the Senate Armed Services Committee in favor of his Republican colleague from Massachusetts, Leverett Saltonstall.

Inside fact was Saltonstall had pestered and badgered Bridges with the argument that since Bridges was ranking Republican on both Appropriations and Armed Services, he should relinquish one of these posts to his colleague from Massachusetts. Bridges did so.

Now the shoe is on the other foot and the tall Blueblood from Boston, Lev Saltonstall, is the top Republican on the same two committees — Appropriations and Armed Services. But so far he has not been as gallant as he asked the late Senator Bridges to be.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, also Republican is number two on the Armed Services Committee. Senator Saltonstall, who can trace his ancestry back to the early days of the Pilgrim fathers, prides himself on being a courtly man. But he has not done for Mrs. Smith what he asked Bridges to do for him.

Penalizing A Lady??

Ten years ago, Senator Smith was a member of the McCarthy investigating Committee Being a lady of both courage and principle, she didn't like McCarthy's ruthless tactics and said so. Finally she signed the "declaration of conscience" calling upon fair play in the investigating methods of the U.S. Senate.

McCarthy promptly bounced Mrs. Smith off his Investigating Committee.

Last week, Senator Smith again showed courage. She challenged John McCone as unqualified to be head of Central Intelligence. Central Intelligence hitherto has reported, intermittently and not very satisfactorily, to a subcommittee of Armed Services on which the top two ranking Republicans are members.

Mrs. Smith, whether Saltonstall bows or not, is among the top two Republicans. But it's reported in Senate cloakrooms that she will now be penalized for her opposition and denied a position on the subcommittee which is supposed to check on CIA.

Note — For a long time some Senators have been demanding a watchdog committee to scrutinize CIA, similar to the joint Atomic Energy Committee which checks on the AEC. The Armed Services Subcommittee is a rather unsatisfactory makeshift until a permanent watchdog committee is established — if ever.

He sat close to the window looking out at the dark plush of midnight. The pale blue eyes reflected the East River, a big biscuit sign on the far shore, and some of the apartment mirrored in the window. The neat gray hair hugs the sides of the head and, even in repose, the hands are busy. They open a book of matches and scrape cigarette ashes from the coffee table at his side.

This is Samuel Bronston, a new type of motion picture producer. He is short, impeccable, with a head like an inverted electric bulb. In 1936, he went to Hollywood to learn about motion pictures. The only thing he saw that he admired was Samuel Goldwyn. "He's everything," he has taste. He is independent. He is the whole industry."

Since then, little Sam Bronston has been walking in big footprints. He has done so well that he now owes $20,000,000. He expects to pay this off, and show a $20,000,000 profit, on two of his movies: King of Kings and El Cid.

The Bronston formula for success is not original. He took the most successful aspects of Hollywood picture making and added — not genius—but guts. The history of motion pictures shows that these aspects are: (1) wide screen; (2) color; (3) spectacular story; (4) shoot it abroad; (5) get a major studio to distribute the picture around the world.

It was on number five that Mr. Bronston and Hollywood parted company. He did not want to pay a big percentage (as much as 40 percent) of his profits to a major studio merely to sell his pictures. Sam goes around the world selling his pictures to each country. It costs him 10 percent and 15 percent. This, of course, makes him a loner.

Once, he was merely the third child in a Russian family of 10. Mr. Bronston Sr. was a rich farmer in Bessarabia in the days of the Czars. He was a Jew, married to a woman who belonged to the Russian Orthodox church his children attended, so long as they learned to play musical instruments.

One daughter, in time, became an opera singer. A son became a concert pianist in Paris. Sam played the flute. In the Bronston farmhouse near Winkov, it was instrumental bedlam at night when all the children and the parents felt a schottische coming on.

The Communists took command of Russia in 1917. Mr. Bronston Sr. left at the same time. He and nine of his children arrived in France broke. Today, two boys are physicians; one is a musician; one daughter sings opera in

Arnold Palmer's 90-Hole 342 Wins Palm Springs Golf Classic

Hebert Ties Littler For Second Place

Palmer Is Victor By Three Strokes, Gets $5,300 Purse

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Arnold Palmer fashioned a brilliant string of five straight birdies on the first nine Sunday, wrecked the opposition, and steamed on in to win the $50,000 Palm Springs Golf Classic.

The steady-nerve Palmer wound up with a 3-under-par 69 and a 90-hole total of 342 in capturing this rich event for the second time in three years.

Win Worth $5,300

En route to the win and the top money of $5,300, Palmer, 32, ruined the hopes of U.S. Open champion Gene Littler to take his second straight tournament in two weeks. Littler, who won the $50,000 San Francisco International, went into a tie with Jay Hebert for second place at 345.

The site was the Bermuda Dunes Country club, an oasis of green in this flat desert playground. An estimated 8,000 golf fans swarmed the fairways under a broiling, 90-degree sun to watch the fifth and final round.

Littler started out with a 2-stroke lead over Gardner Dickinson and a 3-stroke advantage over Palmer. But Palmer began his birdie barrage on the fifth hole. He caught Littler on the eighth hole, then passed him on the ninth when he sank an 8-foot putt for a birdie three, and Littler took a bogey when he 3-putted from 25 feet, missing the last one from five.

Littler wound up with a 75 and Dickinson's 74 placed him in a tie with Tommy Aaron and Al Geiberger.

Par for the 7,610-yard Bermuda test is 36—72.

Tied at 347 were Don January, with a 65, and British Ryder Cup player Neil Coles, with a 67. South Africa's Gary Player wound up with a 71 for a 352 and the 1961 U.S. Amateur champion, newly-turned pro Jack Nicklaus, had a 75 for 365.

Snead Trails By Eight

Sam Snead, with one of the larger galleries at his back, took a 70 for 350.

Dick Mayer finished with a 72 for 349—but far more important, he kept the entire $50,000 he won for a hole-in-one Saturday. He would have had to split it if anyone else had made an ace.

World Ski Event May Be Cancelled

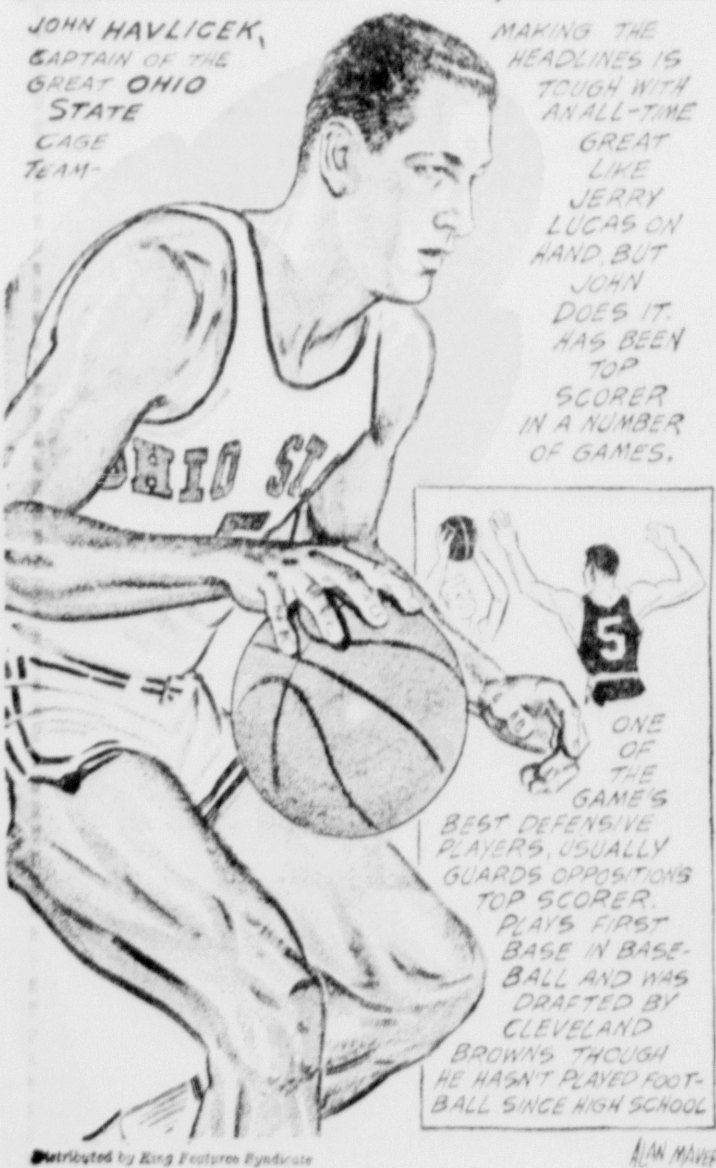

BERNE, Switzerland (UPI)—The International Ski Federation decided Sunday to call off this year's world championships in Chamionis, France unless the Western Allies agree to let East Germany compete.

The championships will be called off unless the Allied travel office in Berlin gives an affirmative answer on East German visas by Tuesday afternoon, Federation President Marc Hodler said.

Police Chief Will Fight Pen Inmate

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—Former Fayetteville police chief Tunney Hunsaker will be out for revenge when he battles Thomas DeJarnette, an inmate at Moundsville Penitentiary, in the main event of a six-bout card Feb. 24 at the new Raleigh County Armory Field House.

DeJarnette was awarded a TKO over Hunsaker Sept. 21 at Moundsville.

Hunsaker was the first professional fighter ever to go behind the walls of a prison to fight an inmate. The bout drew statewide attention.

Hunsaker, winner of 24 of 36 professional fights, has vowed he will "get DeJarnette" in their 10-rounder here.

Barbara Pursley Wins Figure Skating Title

Housewife, Mother From California Scores At Boston

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP)—Mrs. Barbara Roles Pursley, 20, an Arcadia, Calif., housewife and mother, lead the Warriors while Arizin added 29. Hal Greer, who kept Syracuse in contention throughout, had 38 points for the losers.

The slender, blonde Californian, a bronze medalist in the 1960 Olympic Games, thus becomes America's chief hope in the World Tournament next month at Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Lorraine Hanlon, 16, a dark-haired Boston schoolgirl, was second, followed by Victoria Fisher, 18, of Minneapolis.

Frances Gold, 16, daughter of the famed Canadian Coach Otto Gold, was fourth, dropping off in the free-skating performance. She had been second in the school figures.

4,000 Cheer Winner
A capacity crowd of 4,000 cheered wildly as Mrs. Pursley spun, pirouetted and leaped through a sparkling repertoire to the tune of three Italian operas.

Mrs. Pursley, rated one of the world's outstanding free skaters, was more daring and more acrobatic in her four-minute routine than her two main competitors.

Mrs. Pursley, who skated in the shadow of the great Carol Heiss, was third in the 1960 World Championship and 1960 Olympic but retired shortly afterward when she married.

Her activities as a skater were further diminished when she gave birth last June to a daughter, Sherry. For nearly a year and a half, Barbara was absent from competition.

Retirement Saved Life
This temporary retirement saved Barbara's life. Although she had worked and pointed to the trip, she missed the tragic plane accident in Belgium last Feb. 14 in which the cream of America's skaters, en route to the world championships in Czechoslovakia, were killed.

The presence of Mrs. Pursley and the new men's champion, Monty Hoyt, 17, of Denver, gives Saturday Sports Briefs.

Bellamy And Leonard Ring Up 57 Tallies

CHICAGO (UPI)—Walter Bellamy and Bob Leonard teamed up Sunday to lead the Chicago Packers to a 113-105 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers in a National Basketball Association game.

Bellamy, the 6-11 rookie center, lead all scorers with 33 points. But it was Leonard, who tallied 24, who sparked the Packers to their 12th win of the season. Leonard collected 12 points in the decisive third quarter.

The Laker attack was led by Rudy LaRusso who tallied 30 points. Frank Selvy added 24.

Cumberland Aquatic Club Seniors Win Over Towson, 20-0

The senior boys swim team of the Cumberland Aquatic Club defeated Towson 20-0. Don Decker won the 100 yard individual medley and the 100 yard breaststroke. Dave Durocher won the 100 yard backstroke and 100 yard freestyle.

In the other divisional matches the Juniors lost 41-29 although Dan Iser took the 50 yard backstroke and teamed up with Henry Brown, Jim Valentine and Ricky Grove to win the medley relay event.

The local Prep team also lost 40-27 despite victories by Wes Connor in the 50 yard breaststroke and the medley relay team composed of Bob Brinsmade, Ed Berry, Wes Connor and Mike Reed. Ed Berry and Tracy Connor took second and third in the Prep Diving Division.

The Cadets lost 43-7. Tom Levens was top scorer with four points. Cumberland will host the Waynesboro teams Saturday at 1 p.m.

Skating Title Goes To California Cop

Detroit Teacher Is Women's Champ

PETOSKEY, Mich. (AP)—A California policeman and a Detroit schoolteacher skated off with the top honors Sunday in the North American Outdoor Speed Skating Championships.

Jeane Omelenchuk, 30, an art teacher, and Dick Hunt, 26, a police officer from La Canada, Calif., won the senior women and senior men crowns, respectively, in the close of the two-day competition.

It was Mrs. Omelenchuk's second title in a week. Last weekend she won the National Outdoor Championship at St. Paul, Minn. She racked up 20 points with three firsts, a second and a third for the North American crown, finishing well ahead of Bev Gorton, 18, a University of Minnesota sophomore, runner-up with 14 points. Mrs. Omelenchuk won the three-quarter mile Saturday and the half-mile and mile Sunday.

Hunt took the men's lead by winning the three-quarter and 2-mile races Saturday. He finished third in the mile and 5-mile Sunday for a total of 16 points.

Arnold Uhrlass of Elmhurst, N.Y., the 1961 champion, tied with Tom Augustus of Detroit and Terry McDermott of Essexville, Mich., for second place. Each collected 13 points. Bob Fenn of Flushing, N.Y., winner of the 5-mile race Sunday, was next with 12 points.

Ohio State Boasts 16-0, Kentucky Has Won 15 Straight

Bucks Belt Wildcats, Cincy Wins

Detroit And West Virginia Capture Overtime Battles

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

College basketball's top 10, with one surprising exception, proved their right to their rankings last week with a sweep of victories.

In a program of 20 games — many of them in the vital category—the rated squads won 19. Only fifth-ranked Southern California was toppled, by crosstown rival and Big Five Conference leader UCLA Friday night, 73-59.

Ohio State's smooth and powerful Buckeyes, unchallenged as the nation's best, remained the only major team in the unbeaten class by following up a 94-73 decision over Purdue with a 97-61 rout of Northwestern Saturday night. The Bucks now are 16-0.

Kentucky (16-1) pushed its winning string to 15 straight with victories over Georgia Tech, Georgia and Florida during the week, then the second-ranked Wildcats took Saturday off. Southern Cal also was idle Saturday, but the remainder of the Top 10 were busy.

Northwestern managed to open up a 3-0 lead on Ohio State at Columbus, but then the Buckeyes began to roll — pumping in 15 straight points. Jerry Lucas led that spurt, and also was high for the Bucks with 24 points.

Third-ranked Cincinnati (17-2) and ninth-ranked Bradley (14-3) kept up their hot Missouri Valley title duel with victories. The Bearcats won handily at North Texas, 77-50, and the Braves' foul shooting carried them over St. Louis 72-67.

Duke Is Victor

Fourth-ranked Kansas State (15-2) rocked Nebraska 72-53 but still remained runnerup in the Big Eight behind Colorado, which beat Oklahoma State 54-39. Duke, rated No. 6 and 14-2, edged further ahead in the Atlantic Coast Conference trouncing North Carolina 79-57.

Duquesne, the only independent in the top 10, smashed St. Francis (N.Y.) 99-43. Eighth-ranked Bowling Green (15-1) swapped Miami (Ohio) in their Mid-American Conference game, 94-61, and the 10th-ranked Mississippi State Bulldogs (16-1) walloped Louisiana State 87-66 in the Southeastern Conference.

WVU Cops Thriller

West Virginia and Detroit won in overtime thrillers and Texas Tech kept a hold on its Southwest Conference lead in another close one. Jim McCormick's two free throws with 10 seconds to go in the extra period gave West Virginia an 82-81 squeaker over North Carolina State. Detroit upset Villanova 93-89. And Texas Tech put on a late-game stall and nipped Arkansas 66-64.

Wisconsin's surprising Badgers staged several rallies and overcame Minnesota 94-88, thus continuing their race with Ohio State in the Big Ten. The Badgers are 5-0 in the conference to 6-0 for the Buckeyes.

Colorado State University took over the Skyline Conference lead with a 74-59 upset over Utah.

Celtics Score Forty In Third To Beat Knicks

Guerin Is Ejected In 130-114 Defeat

BOSTON (UPI)—Frank Ramsey ignited a 40-point third period for the Boston Celtics Sunday to give them a runaway 130-114 victory over the New York Knicks.

Ramsey, a 6-3 former Kentucky All-American, scored 15 of his 24 points in the third quarter to help the Celtics jump to a 102-84 lead. The teams were tied 62-all at the half.

New York, winner over Boston in their last two meetings, was hampered in the third period by the loss of ace playmaker Richie Guerin. He was ejected after being slapped with a double technical foul for arguing with the referees and cursing.

Al Butler, a former Celtics, tallied 28 points for the losers while Naulls led all scorers with 29 points. Ramsey's 24 points topped the Celtics' scoring parade which included seven players in double figures.

Celtics coach Red Auerbach was given a technical foul late in the second quarter by referee Norman Drucker. Drucker said Russell had been good tending and allowed a Knicks basket. Auerbach protested too loudly.

S & L Scandals Snowball Into Major Issue

Both Political Parties Suffer

By The Associated Press

The savings and loan question is snowballing into a major campaign issue, and both the Democrats and Republicans are taking their lumps.

A former president of the Maryland Savings and Loan League, Albert R. Deford, said his organization had supported efforts to regulate the savings and loan industry since the early 1940s.

He spoke out Saturday after newspaper articles disclosed former Republican Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin had been warned about the lack of adequate regulation as early as 1953.

The warning came from Walter M. McCallister, who at the time was chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. McKeldin answered McCallister saying "it would probably be possible to obtain the needed legislation" if savings and loan associations desired state supervision.

"We were certainly strongly in favor of regulation in 1953 as we were before and have been since that time," said Deford, president of the Maryland league in 1952 and again in 1960.

Maryland's first savings and loan regulatory act was approved by a special session of the General Assembly last June. Until then, Maryland had been the only state without controls over the industry.

Farm Program Signup Will Begin Today

The signup of farmers under the 1962 feed grain program will begin today, according to Brady H. Dolly, chairman of the Allegany County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Mr. Dolly said the signup period will extend through March 30 and the program will cover corn and grain sorghum. Persons interested in the program should visit the ASC office at 126 Union Street.

There are seven principal features of the program, Mr. Dolly said. They include voluntary participation, diversion of not less than 20 per cent of the base acreage of corn and grain sorghum, compliance with the corn and grain sorghum base and the barley base for any other farm on which the producer shares in crops, payments based on yields and support prices, advance payments made at signup time and price support on the normal production of corn, grain sorghum and barley and on oats and rye to be received only by cooperators in the feed grain program.

McKeldin, governor from 1952 until 1958, is expected to seek a statewide office again this year. His fellow Republicans said they would make the savings and loan situation a major issue in the campaign against Gov. Tawes, who is seeking renomination.

Tawes has been blamed for vetoing a regulatory bill in 1960. Claiming that measure did not provide adequate enforcement, the governor appointed a commission to draft the bill which now is in effect.

Richard W. Case, who was appointed to head the commission, said Saturday he deplored the fact that the savings and loan question has been "dragged into the political arena."

"Misinformed and misguided aspirants for public office have taken the position that Gov. Tawes failed to act promptly in discovering the facts underlying the savings and loan problems," Case said, adding:

"...The current political explosion is being generated, by and large, by people who know nothing about the subject. Thus we have been exposed to charges calculated to serve the best self-interest of those making them, rather than the enlightenment of the general public."

David Hume, opposing Tawes for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, charged that Case "...has finally stepped completely over all boundaries of propriety and truth."

"In stating that 'the governor has no need to apologize for his part in the savings and loan controversy' Case owes it to the people of Maryland to deny, if he can, that:

"1. The necessity for regulation in the savings and loan industry ... had become acute by 1960, when Tawes vetoed the legislation ...

"2. By 1960, it was well known to Tawes and to Case that the industry was being flooded by the most treacherous sort of con men, including ex-convicts.

"3. ... Others in the administration had private interests which could conflict with their primary duty to the public..." Hume said.

"Mr. Case intones in pious language that he hates to see the reputable firms dragged into politics or into an investigation," the gubernatorial candidate continued. "I agree. But I do not share his reluctance to investigate closely all the facts about the gubernatorial goose that lays the golden eggs—for a few anyway."

Lee Attacks Brewster

Del. Blair Lee III, D-Montgomery, a candidate for the U. S. Senate, followed up a Baltimore County legislator's statement last week in criticizing his only major opponent for the Democratic nomination, Rep. Daniel Brewster.

He cited the remarks of Del. Charles F. Culver, who charged he had been "bumped" from the Birmingham-Pine ticket because he was a former vice president of the controversial Security Financial Insurance Corp., insurer of savings and loan deposits.

Brewster is closely allied with the forces of Michael J. Birmingham.

Young Mother Sells Article To Magazine

First Effort At Writing

By P. TERRENCE BURKE
News Staff Writer

A local young mother of two small children has achieved success in her first venture in writing and soon will have her story published in a well-known woman's magazine.

Mrs. Carolyn Nimmons, of 24 Valley Street, received word recently from the publishers of Redbook magazine that a story she submitted will be in the April issue of the publication. The issue will be on the newsstands the latter part of next month.

Mrs. Nimmons, who is the mother of two daughters, Terri and Tammi, did not divulge the nature of her story, but said it was based on an incident which happened to her and her two children one day last summer on the playground of Centre Street School.

She added the story will appear in a section of the magazine which features articles by young mothers.

For her first attempt in the field of writing, Mrs. Nimmons was well rewarded. She received a "substantial" check from the magazine for her story, which, she added was completed in just one evening.

The 2,000-word story was submitted for consideration in August, and Mrs. Nimmons did not hear anything from Redbook until several weeks ago. She said she was quite elated when she was notified because she had Junior College where she spent some time before she assumed her story had been rejected.

Sanitary Unit Suggested For Mt. Savage

Central Water System Urged

(This is the seventh of a series of articles based on a State Health Department report to the Allegany County Sanitary Commission concerning the 14 water systems which serve residents of the county.)

A report by the State Health Department recommends that a single central water supply should be provided for the entire Mt. Savage area.

Creation of a sanitary district, having the same boundaries as the present Mt. Savage special tax district, was suggested. The portion of the report which pertains to Mt. Savage follows:

Serve Mt. Savage

In 1941, according to the records of the State Department of Health, there were 12 public water supplies in the Mt. Savage area. Ten of these lines were small, serving from three to 15 connections. Two of the supplies, namely the O'Tool Spring Supply and the New Row Supply were fairly extensive, serving 50 or more customers.

On a recent visit to Mt. Savage and without knowledge of the numerous small supplies, it was learned that there are still at least three companies or organizations serving water in this area on five systems. Definite information was available on only the two largest companies which are the Mt. Savage Water Company and the Mt. Savage Water Line.

The Mt. Savage Water Company serves approximately 125 connected customers on three systems, which are essentially the former New Row Supply, Welsh Meadow Supply, and the Sheridan Spring Supply.

The New Row Supply or Main System of the Mt. Savage Water Company has approximately 90 to 95 connections. The sources of supply are a spring and well on Calla Hill. Adjacent to the well is a 40,000 gallon cistern for storage of raw water. Additional sources for this supply are three springs which appear to correspond to springs on the former New Row Supply. There is a 6,000 gallon cistern located near these springs. The springs appear reasonably protected and the well to be of standard construction although no details are available.

Some Are Small

The Welsh Meadow Supply serves approximately 17 customers. The sources of supply are a spring and a well. All appear to be adequately constructed. There are two storage tanks having an estimated total capacity of 10,000 gallons.

The Sheridan Spring Supply serves approximately 17 customers. Sources of supply are two inadequately protected springs in poor locations, and storage consists of a 1500 gallon cistern.

The Mt. Savage Water Line serves approximately 50 customers. The source of supply consists of six springs of unknown construction and two wells, one of which was constructed in the early 1920's. Quality of the water from these wells is unknown and it is reported that the production of these wells is small. It is also reported that the spring flow is not reliable. There is a 100,000 gallon concrete reservoir with wooden roof on this system. The entire structure appeared to be in excellent condition.

None Are Treated

None of these water supplies are treated and although adequate chlorination might provide a safe water to their customers, assuming satisfactory chemical quality, there is no justification in rec-

Take Heart Campaign Pulse

James W. (Doc) Webster, general chairman for the 1962 fund campaign of the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association, met with these three women area chairman to plan and map out their part in the February drive at a combined strategy meeting

Amcelle Employees Honored

Seventeen employees of the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company were presented gold watches recently by W. E. Crooks, plant manager, upon completion of 25 years service.

Textile manufacturing section employees who received watches include Miss Veronica V. Spearman, 33 Virginia Avenue; Mrs. Viola C. Henry, 209 Piedmont Avenue; Mrs. Kathryn S. Whisner, 1017 Lexington Avenue; Mrs. Mary H. Kaefel, 231 Independence Street; Clayton B. Oster, Oldtown Road, and Mrs. Virginia R. Smith, Frostburg.

Extrusion manufacturing section employees honored include James E. Stratton, 539 Fairview Avenue; Melvin G. Zollner, 13 Pennsylvania Avenue; Joseph B. Will, Potomac Park and David J. Kerns, Mill Run Road, Oldtown.

Those honored in cellulose compounds manufacturing section include Nial F. Weber, 1334 Shades Lane; George E. Netzer, Ridgeley; and Angus Turnball, RD 1, Frostburg.

Charles R. Burkey, 620 Fairview Avenue; Harry B. Frost, Frostburg, and Harry W. Matthews of New Creek, W. Va., of the engineering section also received watches as did Mrs. Hazel C. Buchholz, RD 3, Bedford Road, P.A. Lab employee.

Area superintendents joined in honoring the employees by presenting emblems and certificates.

Two Persons Are Hurt In Accidents

Two persons were injured yesterday in separate auto accidents in this area although full details were not available last night.

Donna Martin, 15, of Luke, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser at 2:10 p. m. yesterday suffering from shock.

It was reported she had been in an auto accident near her home town, although State Police said they had no report of the accident. She apparently was not injured seriously.

In the other accident, a spokesman for Allegany Ballistics Laboratory said one of the employees, J. Lucky, reported he had been in an accident. He was treated at the facility.

An auto bearing Georgia license tags was reported to have gone over an embankment and was demolished along the Pinto Road between U. S. Route 220 and West Virginia Route 28.

It is surmised Lucky was injured in that accident. The ABL spokesman said the man was treated about 6:30 p. m.

Heart Association Asking For $23,280

The Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association, four days into its annual Heart Fund campaign, yesterday presented a breakdown of its $23,280 goal, a figure derived from the established budget for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

James W. (Doc) Webster, serving as general chairman for the 1962 campaign, listed the budget expenditures which, he said, have become increasingly greater because of the discoveries and progress being made through the American Heart Association's disease research program.

Webster stated that the biggest budget item, the "real source of the battle against heart disease," is research involved in the prevention, control, and treatment of cardiovascular disease.

The Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association, he said, has earmarked $8,310 for its contribution to the research program.

Next largest budget item is community service, a program carried on by the local Heart office for families of this area confronted by disease of the heart and circulatory system. This total amounts to $7,977.50.

Community Service

The community service program includes drugs for prevention of rheumatic fever; a "loan closet" for bedside equipment needed by cardiac patients; diagnostic consultation service, provided for suspected and known heart disease victims, and transportation service to out-of-town heart disease treatment centers, primarily Baltimore.

Also, the program includes information and referrals for cardiacs who need assistance in lining up their treatment and operations; work classifications service to rehabilitate heart patients so they might resume employment, and work simplification service for cardiac housewives, and others needing advice on the work load they can handle after being stricken with heart disease.

Another budget item is $2,465 for public education, which includes films, pamphlets, and other literature made available through the mail or at the local Heart office on South Centre Street.

Professional Education

Professional education, designed to keep physicians and nurses abreast of the latest accomplishments in the war against heart disease and its related ills, is another expenditure for which $1,667 is designated.

A sum of $1,000 for field service, money to be used for keeping coordination between the national, state and county heart associations working as up-to-date as possible, and as efficiently as possible, is included.

In rounding out the budget, $1,860 will be set aside for fund raising and administration, "functions without which the entire Heart organization could not operate," Webster added.

The Heart Fund campaign will run through the month of February and will be climaxed on Sunday, February 25, Heart Sunday, when thousands of volunteers approach every household in the two counties for personal contributions.

Temperature Hits 69-Degree Mark In Cumberland

Spring-like weather moved into this section yesterday and the unofficial high in downtown Cumberland was 69 degrees.

A low of 35 degrees was recorded during the night yesterday and then the mercury started upwards, reaching the 69-degree mark at 4 p. m.

On Saturday the temperature reached the 56-degree mark, causing most of the snow to melt. The break in the weather was quite a respite from the cold and snow which the area experienced last week.

The Weather Bureau calls for the mild weather to continue today with the high in the 60s. However, it is expected to become colder tomorrow night with a chance of showers.

Firemen Plan Annual Smoker On April 14

Lonaconing Host To Evening Event

The Goodwill Volunteer Fire Company at Lonaconing will be host to the annual smoker of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association on Saturday, April 14.

The smoker will begin with a dinner at 5 p. m. Beginning at 8 p. m. entertainment and refreshments will round out the evening's activities.

During a monthly meeting of the association yesterday afternoon at the Clarysville fire hall, Alvin Rankin, Frostburg, was appointed chairman of ways and means; John Pritchard, Frostburg, chairman of entertainment; and David E. Kirk, Bowling Green, invitations and tickets.

Also discussed yesterday was the forthcoming 50th anniversary program of the association which will be held June 8 at Frostburg.

The all-day meeting will begin at 10 a. m. After a banquet that evening, a street parade will be held.
